Speaker Bio

Jason Healy

Jason Healy has over 20 years of experience at Suffield Academy, a boarding high school in Northern Connecticut. He oversees the IT department, manages the school's wired and wireless network, writes code, and teaches courses in computer science. He lives on campus with his wife and four children. Jason is a proponent of open-source software, non-proprietary protocols, and solutions that give people choice and freedom to explore, customize, and share technologies to solve to their problems.